CONSERVATION AND RESCUE

Who We Are?

Wild at Life e.V. is a globally active non-government organization (NGO) dedicated to protecting endangered wildlife and preserving biodiversity. By integrating environmental, social, and governance (ESG) principles, the organization works to address urgent challenges impacting ecosystems and communities.

What We Do?

Our community-led conservation efforts empower local populations to protect biodiversity, resolve human-wildlife conflicts, and create resilient ecosystems. Every initiative we pursue reflects our commitment to preserving nature's biodiversity and carbon-storing ecosystems, helping combat climate change and support thriving communities. Wild at Life's alignment with these global goals highlights our role in a worldwide movement toward a more sustainable, equitable future for all.

JOIN OUR MISSION

Our Partners

For over 25 years, Wild At Life has formed key partnerships with leading organizations like the Jane Goodall Institute, ALERT, and SAVISM, working on projects that protect wildlife and empower communities. Through Mission Caïta, we have helped rescue and rehabilitate primates, while tackling wildlife trafficking. With ALERT, the focus lies on lion conservation, while our collaboration with SAVSIM brings innovative solutions to human-wildlife conflict in Africa, as well as anti poaching missions.
